

CHRISTIANITY and ATHEISM

3. Science vs. Faith

Introduction

Carl Sagan's "Cosmos" was one of the highest-rated public television documentaries. In this program he taught one of the most important doctrines of what might be called the "religion of science." Sagan said, "The Cosmos is all that is or ever was or ever will be." He believed that science was the next step in the process of human evolution. It would replace most, if not all, of religion's role in society.

Sir Richard Gregory (1864-1952), said it this way:

*My grandfather preached the gospel of Christ;
My father preached the gospel of socialism;
I preach the gospel of science.* (The Twilight of Atheism, p. 78)

Today Christians are constantly challenged either to abandon their faith in God, miracles and the truths or the Bible... or at the very least... to conform their faith to the dictates of scientific truth. (For an interesting review of Sagan's Cosmos, see <http://www.detwiler.us/sagan.html>)

The Development of This Issue

1. The "War" Between Faith and Science –
2. Advances in Science Have Eliminated the Need for Faith in the Supernatural –

Logical Response to the Problem of Science vs. Faith

1. Christianity and the Birth of Science –

2. Science Is “Thinking God’s Thoughts”

Biblical Response to the Problem of Science vs. Faith

Genesis 11.1-9 The Tower of Babel –

Psalms 19 –

Romans 1.18-25 –

